IMPACT ELEMENTS

The island of Ceram in the Moluccan province of Eastern Indonesia is home to one of the largest Indonesian national parks Manusela.

And home to a large demographic of Indigenous inhabitants who continue to refuse education.

As development encroaches there is a window of opportunity to put in place preventative holistic measures that support the sustainable development of place people.

Project Ceram is a three pronged approach that does just that.

E N V I R O N M E N T

An Op Shop stocked with pre-loved items redirects otherwise wasted items away from landfill into communities of need.

Sale proceeds are used to print environmental educational resources for Primary Schools.

We are also in the early stages of exploring the prospects of creating a Community Agroforestry Area on the island.

PROJECT CERAM

E D U C A T I O N

Embed environmental learning resources in local primary schools.

The Happy Green Islands Foundation is committed to improving the environment in the Moluccas with their books driving change in schools across the globe.

PROJECT CERAM

E X C H A N G E

A "Give-Back Get-Away" to Ceram that fosters shared learning cross culturally between like-minded action takers. The benefits to the participant:

- Get Back to basics
- Make a difference
- Redefine comfort zones
- Challenge perspectives
- Taste something more
- Deeper connection
- Be nurtured by nature
